The Conduit Centre

Trinity Church has decided to make improvements to the entrance and the facilities in the Conduit Centre.

The new facilities will enable easier access for the disabled and infirm and for the children who use the Centre. The project will include environmentally friendly changes which will save on heating and lighting.

Over 700 people a week use the Centre. It hosts more than 20 community groups on a regular basis and provides accommodation for many other events, including receptions, parties and fairs during the year.

Both the Church congregation, in meetings, and the users of the Conduit Centre, in completing a survey, have contributed to the plans for this development.

TrinityLearning, a charity established by Trinity Church and supported by 70 volunteers from 12 local churches and by the Church in Abingdon is based in the Conduit Centre. its staff and visitors, including children, will also benefit from these improvements.

The projected cost of these developments is £140,000.
